Nero, Hero Of Small Village

CERES, Italy, Oct. 17 (AP) — Nero, a tiny dachshund with the heart of a lion, was the idol of this village of 1,650 persons today, a hero that came back from the dead. The fiery dachshund got stuck in a 30-foot hole eight days ago while hunting a fox. For six days and nights villagers dug in relays to try to rescue him. Explosives and even bulldozers were used last week in an attempt to save him. Milk and water were poured down a pipe which also gave him air. His feeble growls could be heard through the pipe. On Friday the noises ceased and a veterinarian officially pronounced him dead. The saddened villagers returned to their homes and 10-year-old Cinciarlo Garbolino, son of the dog's owner, laid a wreath of flowers on the hole. But Nero never gave up, and Sunday night he came howling, thin, almost starved and with his tail wagging feebly. He had dug his way to the surface past the funeral wreath and made it home. Cinciarlo laughed, cried and sobbed when Nero crawled into his father's shop. And the residents of Ceres came to the shop to cheer Nero.

Murray State Spoils Indian Homecoming With 13-7 Win

By BOB GILBERT
JONESBORO, Ark., Oct. 15 — The Murray State Thoroughbreds threw the wraps off this afternoon and went on to defeat the Arkansas State Indians 13-7, before a crisp homecoming crowd of 3,500 fans at Jonesboro, Arkansas.

For the second time this season, the Racers looked like the club picked in the pre-season poll to be tops in the Ohio Valley Conference. Taking advantage of every break, the Racers took charge of the game in the second period, when quarterback Jerry Stripling engineered a 79-yard touchdown drive with halfback Carl Walker taking it over for the last twelve yards. Wall missed the extra point, but left Murray out in front 6-0.

In the third period, halfbacks U.S. Strong and M. M. Hampton led the Racers to a 13-7 victory. The game was a close one, with the Racers leading 13-7 at the end of the third quarter. The game was a close one, with the Racers leading 13-7 at the end of the third quarter.

The other two American winners were Tommy Kono of Sacramento, Calif., who won the light heavyweight title by lifting 397 pounds, and Pate George of Akron, Ohio, who captured the middleweight crown by lifting a total of 891 pounds.

By lifting a world record 408 pounds in the two arm press, 318 pounds in the snatch and 400 pounds in the clean and jerk, the 342-pound Anderson erased the previous world record total of 1,072 pounds lifted by Norbert Shemansky of Detroit, the 1954 title holder who did not compete this year.

Jim Bradford of York, Pa., was runnerup to Anderson in the heavyweight class with a total of 1,045 pounds lifted.

The Russians, realizing they had no one to compete with Anderson, did not enter the competition in the heavyweight division, while the Americans did not compete in the featherweight and lightweight classes.

Russia, which also edged the U.S. four titles to three in the 1954 world championships at Vienna, won the 1955 world crown with 29 points. The U.S. was second with 25 points and Egypt third with four points.

Wetherby Will Make Speeches

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 17 (AP) — Gov. Lawrence W. Wetherby will make a round of campaign speeches in Jefferson County after he returns from the Southern Governors Conference Thursday.

Wetherby, the lone leader in the top ranks of Kentucky's Democratic party who has not pledged active support to Democratic nominee for governor A. B. Chandler, did not reveal what he would have to say in his 3rd district speeches.

Wetherby, after the bitter Democratic primary, merely promised to vote for the party's nominee. He has been urged by party leaders to give Chandler active support in the Nov. 8 election, but so far he has refused to do so.

The governor did not attend the "harmony" rally at Louisville last month when Sens. Alben W. Barkley and Earle C. Clements spoke in behalf of Chandler; and he was not present when Chandler opened his campaign at Bowling Green.

Dick Utley and Phil Foster broke for long runs that set up Murray's second TD. With the ball on the one-yard line, Stripling handed off to Carl Walker who plunged into the end zone for the TD. On the try for extra point, Stripling took an intentionally high pass from center and fired a pass to end Don Sparks in the end zone for the point. Murray lead 13-0.

Arkansas's only score came on a beautiful 90-yard punt return by fullback Don Riggs. Bill Templeton converted, ending the scoring.

Passes — Seven For Seven
Murray kept Arkansas defenses loose all afternoon with long passes and screen passes. However, in the last half, Arkansas fans viewed the game with awe as Murray completed seven out of seven passes. The main combination threat was from Stripling to Don Heine, although Heine's phillips did quite a bit of damage through the air.

Giordano And Bottos
Once again, guard Al Giordano and fullback Dave Bottos played standout ball on defense, making it rough on Arkansas play up the middle.

Caddas Everywhere
Center Chester Caddas played his finest game of the season. He was in on the first three tackles of the game, and was a constant linebacker threat during the game.

For the first time this year, a Murray center converted punts with timeliness and aggressiveness.

Head coach Fred Faunt appeared to be happy concerning the outcome of the game, although he felt that Murray should have scored several more times.

Next week, the Racers play host to Florence State College of Alabama. The game will be played in the afternoon on Cutchin Field.

A sellout crowd is expected to be on hand after Murray's convincing win over Arkansas.

Score By Quarters:
MURRAY 0 0 6 7 0 — 13
ARKANSAS 0 0 0 7 — 7

Murray Scoring — Touchdown: Walker 2 (12-yr run, 1-yr plunge). Conversion: Sparks (pass from Stripling). Arkansas scoring — Touchdown: Riggs (90-yr punt return). Conversion: Templeton (placement).

Argument Over Marriage Of Princess May Break Into Open

By HAROLD M. WILLARD
United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Oct. 17 (AP) — Princess Margaret ended her weekend with Group Capt. Peter Townsend today and sped back to London for a behind-the-scenes fight that may win her more than a "second class" marriage with the dashing RAF war hero.

Margaret left Allanby Park, the nearby country home of her cousin, Mrs. John Wills, at 12:05 p.m. (8:05 a.m. EDT) and drove by limousine back to Clarence House accompanied only by Iris Penke, her lady-in-waiting.

Accepts Invitations
However, Margaret indicated there would be no marriage for at least two months, since she announced acceptance today of invitations to two official functions spaced out over November and a third on Dec. 7.

The lines were being drawn for a showdown, possibly this week. Margaret had powerful support, but some of the bitterness contained just below the British surface began spilling over toward an open war.

with a demand she hang on to her royal rights and shun "second class" marriage that would relegate her and her husband to the role of ordinary man and wife, far removed from the throne.

The thyst in the country at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Wills was described as a "weekend of redoubt" — few days together to see if Margaret and Townsend's love for one another had survived his two years and four months of exile.

Townsend left the heavily guarded gates of Barnaby Park, the estate near Windsor, holding hands as they strolled through the grounds, posing for pictures that could be engagement pictures, sitting before an open fire.

Wide Support Claimed
Margaret, 25, now has the right to marry the man of her choice. The Daily Express made it plain the princess will have support from wide sections of both parties if she announces her engagement.

But the bishops of the Church of England sit in the House of Lords, and the Church of England, refuses to recognize remarriage of divorced persons. Townsend's divorced wife is still living.

Under terms of the Royal Marriage Act, Margaret still would have to wait a year once she voiced her intent to marry. But there was a growing clamor that this act be voided so the marriage could proceed at once.

It was clear the weekend tryst had forced the issue and that a public decision must be made soon.

It seemed likely that members of Parliament would bring it up by formally questioning the government once Parliament reconvenes.

Washington, on probation from the Boys Industrial School, was accused of stealing the coin Saturday from Elmer Ray. But it was no ordinary nickel he took. The coin is an 1887 Liberty head coin, one of nine minted by the government as proofs. They were not put into circulation.

Stricken Area Staggers Under Loss Of Half Billion Dollars

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 17 (AP) — Flood waters of scores of streams in seven northeastern states began slowly to recede today, leaving in their wake a mounting toll of dead and missing and damage that may total more than a half billion dollars.

The latest survey showed at least 44 dead in the flood-ravaged area stretching from Maine to Pennsylvania where a similar disaster struck only one month ago. An estimated 25,000 persons were homeless and thousands were idled when industries, either inundated or without power, were forced to shut down.

Rain, which had fallen for four days, continued to pelt down on the stricken area and the Boston Weather Bureau saw no respite from the cloudy skies until Wednesday. However, the Weather Bureau said swollen streams are slowly receding and will continue to do so.

Its forecast said that rainfall today and Tuesday would measure one to two inches or more and that if such a fall developed in eastern Massachusetts and Rhode Island there might be further rises in streams in that area.

Connecticut, which bore the brunt of the August floods, was hardest hit by the newest disaster, especially the eastern coastal area of the state where hundreds of homes and industries were inundated and water and food supplies were threatened.

Connecticut counted at least 18 dead. New York reported 10 dead. New Jersey 4, Pennsylvania 3, Massachusetts 4, Rhode Island 3, and Maine 1.

Thousands of commuters who work in New York City and live in Fairfield County, Connecticut, adjoining New York state, were delayed in reaching their jobs this morning because of curtailed schedules on the New Haven Railroad and traffic jams on parkways leading into the city.

National Guard troops, called out by Gov. Abraham Ribicoff shortly after he rushed here from his West Virginia vacation, patrolled the streets in a dozen Connecticut towns. Looting was reported in Danbury, Stamford and Greenwich.

Several towns proclaimed a state of emergency. Danbury and Norwalk were without power. In the latter town, a plant blew up early Sunday when flood waters poured over a generator. Evacuation also was still underway in Norwalk where the Silvermine River threatened a residential area.

Evacuations were carried out by helicopter, rowboats and amphibious equipment provided by the Army and Coast Guard.

Ribicoff reported that he was hopeful "the worst is over" in Connecticut. He said about half the 1,500 National Guard troops on duty had been recalled and some of the 4,500 families evacuated were returning to their homes.

Refugees streamed into schools and churches in the seven-state area and waited patiently for the waters to recede from their homes so they could return and begin the gigantic task of cleaning up. For many it was a nightmare re-occurrence of what they had experienced only a month earlier.

In Ansonia, Conn., where Hurricane Diane dumped tons of water on the town in the earlier disaster, Mayor William Sheesby asked: "How much can one people take?"

Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine escaped the brunt of the storm but Rhode Island coastal communities were hit by flooding. Western Massachusetts, mired in the August floods, was hardest hit in that state, but major streams were beginning to recede.

In the seven-state area, thousands of volunteers, Civil Defense workers and National Guardsmen answered the emergency with a knowledge gathered from the August floods. Army troops and Coast Guardsmen loaned men and equipment.

The New York City and Long Island area escaped any serious flood threat.

Get Acquainted With Your Health Department

Question: What Services Does Your Health Department Give You? Answer: School health activities comprise one of the major services of the Health Department. Every child in school receives services from the Health Dept. in examination and immunization. Each child receives a card before entering school. Each child is examined three or more times during the twelve years in school. These examinations are required by law. Every effort is made by the Health Department to encourage children with defects to see their family doctor or dentist for correction.

PRESIDENTIAL TIMBER

In the last ten or twelve years we have become so accustomed to candidates for the presidency, and other important offices, being selected behind closed doors we overlook the fact this is something new and entirely alien to our democratic method of picking nominees.

Also we have our rights narrowed down to one or two men in each party, and either don't know, or care, whether there are others at least as worthy, if not more so.

David Lawrence names three men in each party that would make good presidents, Senator Byrd of Virginia, Governor Frank Lausche of Ohio and Senator Richard Russell of Georgia for the democrats, and Vice President Richard Nixon, Senator Knowland of California and Governor Christian Herter of Massachusetts, for the Republicans.

Of course there are many others just as worthy and an independent convention could be relied upon to select nominees without regard to Tammany Hall, and without the fan-fare at the taxpayers expense that we have come to accept as legal and legitimate.

The six men mentioned have records which deserve respect and which justify the voters in giving them a promotion, and any of them could be relied upon to continue the wholesome fiscal and defense programs put into effect by the Eisenhower administration.

It is pretty well established that President Eisenhower will not run for re-election. His family and friends will oppose it bitterly. So, between now and convention time the Republicans will have to sell his program to the people and get a candidate that will continue it.

On the democratic front there isn't a potential candidate who could be relied upon to continue it. We believe the people are convinced that Harriman, Stevenson, nor Kefauver would do it.

The Republican press is publicizing the fact that the Eisenhower Administration has already saved the taxpayers thirty-six billions of dollars, strengthened our defense, stopped shooting war, and brought the budget within sight of a balance.

The chief Democratic issues are reduced farm prices and the execution of a contract with the Dixon-Yates outfit to build a steam plant at West Memphis, Arkansas, (despite the fact the contract was promptly cancelled when the City of Memphis agreed to build its own plant.)

It would be interesting to see what would happen next year if the democrats would nominate one of the men mentioned above, and the republicans would nominate a "liberal." We believe it would be well nigh impossible to tell a democrat from a republican.

The nomination of any of these men is indeed a remote possibility. The democrats have long since repudiated their fellows like Russell, Lausche and Byrd. But so long as they are identified as democrats one of them could be selected as a "dark horse" candidate to break a convention dead-lock.

The point is that there is no dearth of presidential "timber" in the United States. There are many men capable of holding the office, both inside and outside of the New Deal-Fair Deal "monarchy."

TESTED FOR HEIFERS

The University of Kentucky Experiment Station reports that feeding trials indicate that corn-cobs and cottonseed hulls make satisfactory roughages for dairy heifers when supplemented with Purina cattle supplement A or some other high-protein supplement. In part the report says:

"When the intake of roughages was limited, heifers fed corn-cobs as a sole roughage gained 92 of a pound daily; heifers receiving cottonseed hulls gained 84 of a pound daily and heifers fed a clover-timothy hay and 17 per cent protein concentrate gained 78 pound daily.

"In a second trial, when the heifers were fed all the cottonseed hulls they would eat, the average gain was 80 of a pound daily, which compares favorably with heifers fed either clover-timothy hay or corn cobs.

What Price Statistics TV Star Is

NEW YORK (AP) — What price statistics? Jerry Foley, Hamline University's star passer, has completed 64 of 128 pass attempts for a total yardage of 805 and an average of 20.3 per game. Foley has completed 40 aeri-als in 111 attempts for a total yardage of 727. All told, Hamline has completed 64 of 128 pass attempts for a total yardage of 805 and an average of 20.3 per game. Foley, the total offense leader among small college players, is credited with 687 yards gained in 121 plays. He is comfortably ahead of runnerup Bill Hamilton of Florida State, with 592 yards in 103 plays, and Dick Zahn of Hiram in third place with 560 yards aimed in 61 plays. To give you an idea how Foley operates, he threw 62 times last Saturday and completed 33 passes for 284 yards in a 33-21 loss to St. John's Minn. Hamline threw and completed one more pass to set a new national team completion record of 34 for one game and tie the all-time one-game team attempt record of 63. Foley's feverish pitching pace also helped teammate Dick Donlin to rank No. 1 in pass receiving among small college players. Donlin, a 6-foot, 6-inch senior, has caught 27 passes for 290 yards. He set a new all-time collegiate one-game mark by grabbing 16 passes Saturday. In the rushing department, Ke Lutterback of Evansville and Ph. Bucalo of Northeastern were tied for first place with 431 yard apiece. Lutterback gained his yardage on 64 rushes, Bucalo on 85.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

THE DOOR opened and Bessie Kibbee came in carrying a big tray. Lois hastened to clear off the table.

"That's too heavy for you," she protested.

"Clyde took Paula for a drive and that Joe is never where you want him." Bessie removed covers and Lois saw lamb chops, creamed potatoes and peas, hot rolls and lemon pie. There was also a frosty cocktail shaker.

"Shandy fixed it," Bessie explained. "Said you used to like card cocktails. Know what? It's the first time Shandy has gone anywhere. He came over, all dressed up, it takes Jane Brindle to work miracles. If only Albert would see her—"

"She seems nice."

"Jane is just plain good," Bessie declared. "No one like her. But she's Albert's blind spot. I can't imagine what got into him. Yes, of course, I can too. It was Roger, and where Roger was concerned—"

She mopped her face. "You sit down and eat what it's hot. And drink your cocktail right away."

"There's too much for one person," Lois exclaimed. "Won't you join me?"

"I've got dinner to fix for Albert and Clyde and I've asked Paula Case to come. Carol's going out. But I'll sit a spell. No telling when the youngsters will get back." She sat down while Lois poured a cocktail and refused one for herself. "Albert can't hardly wait for this, but he was nothing more than a chaser. He liked to drink, though he tried his best to keep people from finding out."

Sipping the ice-cold cocktail with its tang of lime, Lois blessed Shandy. Tired from her engrossing reading, her mind was at rest and did not follow Bessie's closely, though she watched her with interested eyes, a trick she had learned in dealing with "authors" who had what she termed circular minds, which surrounded a point instead of going straight to it. She had learned not to interrupt, not to try to shift focus, no to hurry them; for often out of the rambling came invaluable information she could obtain only by indirect means.

"Albert," Bessie went on, "is a dreamer. He creates things in his own image and believes they are true. He's just too idealistic for a practical world. Sometimes I think he'd have been better off if

Premiere Of Film Is Big Flop

By ALJNE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD — "Oklahoma!" on the new Todd A-O wide-screen was billed as the biggest movie event since sound, but it stumbled to a bad start in New York and "I'm not happy," showman Mike Todd admitted today.

Since the top musical of all time was transferred to a gigantic screen the size of a barn wall, reams of publicity, including Todd's have praised the production.

But the premiere in New York last Tuesday turned out less than colorful.

Most New York critics praised the picture but tabbed the Todd A-O process disappointing.

Todd himself admitted in an interview today that to say the premiere was a flop is "an understatement." But he insisted, "the process is great — it was a bad print and bad showmanship."

Todd Means
"If they had called in experts to louse up the premiere they couldn't have done better," he moaned as he paced around his office at RKO.

By "they" he meant Magna Theaters, distributors of the movie. "The print was scratchy and covered with snow," he continued. "It destroyed the illusion of depth. And the sound was muffled. They kept the curtain closed at the opening. They wanted to show off that curtain, I guess."

"They kept telling me, it will be all right next week! It's the opening night that counts. Showmanship!" he cried.

Todd rushed to the rescue by sending the theater raw film so a new print could be made. Only one print had been made of "Oklahoma!" because "as of last Friday they were still fiddling around with the title opening on the master print." They should have postponed the premier.

Didn't Like Shots
"They didn't like the shots of Oklahoma, afraid the process might be shown off better," he said with sarcasm. "They'd taken out the two best scenes — of the corn and the chase — and finally put them back in."

Todd shifted his cigar and moaned that the handling of the press was "embarrassing."

"They gave the critics only one seat apiece in the balcony," he snarled. "I had only two tickets."

All of the youth and vigor of true hardtop styling has been skillfully combined with the comfort and convenience of the four-door sedan. While the car shown above is in the Custom Royal series, the same body style is being offered in the lower priced Royal and Coronet series.

and gave them to a critic who didn't receive any." Todd slowed down his motor to say he thinks his own production for Todd A-O "Around The World In 80 Days," will be "better" than "Oklahoma!"

"Oklahoma!" will make more money than anything in the history of show business, but a man can't live by bread alone," he said.

"Around The World In 80 Days" is better suited to the process. I'll show you something better, that picture, in April. And I'll be in charge of the showmanship!"

Tennessee Cancels Reciprocal Hunt And Fish Agreement

FRANKFORT, Oct. 15 — Kentucky State Wildlife Commissioner Earl Wallace revealed Friday that Tennessee has canceled the reciprocal agreement with Kentucky regarding fishing and hunting on Kentucky Lake.

Wallace said he received notification of the cancellation from Hayden Olds, director of the Tennessee commission.

Tennessee canceled the agreement after Kentucky suggested that holders of Tennessee hunting licenses not be permitted to hunt waterfowl north of the state line on the lake.

Under the agreement, Kentucky fishermen in the Tennessee section of the lake could fish without having a Tennessee license, and fishermen from the other state had the same privilege in Kentucky waters. Wallace said the agreement between the states regarding Dale Hollow Reservoir is still in effect and was in no way affected by the cancellation of the Kentucky Lake agreement.
